Course Description:
This is an interdisciplinary course that will introduce students to basic concepts in economics, political science, and sociology relevant to the study of social problems and the programs designed to remedy them. We will address issues of national policy importance, as well as concerns specifically relevant to Baltimore City and the metropolitan region. Students will be introduced to some of the key methodologies social scientists employ, and will learn to critically evaluate the theoretical and empirical literature in the field. Introduction to Social Policy is open to all freshmen, sophomores, and juniors and there are no prerequisites. The course is required for the new Social Policy minor and counts towards the required courses needed for majoring in Sociology and Political Science, but not for Economics. The course is also writing-intensive and counts towards general distribution requirements.

Readings:
The following texts are required. If you do not wish to purchase them, copies are on two-hour reserve at the Milton S. Eisenhower Library.

   Edin, Kathryn and Luke Shafer, $2.00 a Day: Living on Almost Nothing in America (Houghton Mifflin Harcourt, 2015)
   Katznelson, Ira When Affirmative Action was White: The Untold History of Racial Inequality in Twentieth Century America (WWNorton and Company, 2005).
   Orleck, Annelise Storming Caesar’s Palace: How Black Mothers Fought Their Own War on Poverty (Beacon Press, 2005).

All other required readings are available through the course website or on electronic reserve at the Milton S. Eisenhower library.

Website:
This course has a Blackboard website which you should consult frequently for announcements. Blackboard will also be used as a forum for online discussions. You can access the course website at blackboard.jhu.edu.

Class Format:
The format of the class is lecture (on Tuesdays) and discussion (on Thursdays). All lectures will take place in Levering Arellano. For most discussions we will break off into smaller sections (noted in the syllabus as “breakout rooms”). At the end of each block (economics, sociology, political science) we will meet for a large class discussion in Levering Arellano.

All students should come to discussion section prepared to comment on and critique the assigned reading and ask questions. Participation in class contributes to your grade.

Electronics:
No laptops, tablets, or phones are allowed in this class.

Course Requirements:

Memos (64 points): During the semester, you will write four memos. Each memo will be approximately 6 pages in length, double-spaced, 1-inch margins, and 12pt font. Memo topics will be distributed approximately two weeks before the deadline with specific guidelines posted on the course website. Your memo should be submitted both online (Blackboard) and in hard copy with a copy of the memo guidelines stapled to the front of your memo. If you would like to improve your writing skills, you are encouraged to use the excellent resources available at the Johns Hopkins Writing Center which is located in Gilman Hall in the north wing of the Hutzer Reading Room (Room 230). Further writing guidelines are on the Cover Sheet posted on the course website. Online deadlines for each memo are 12 noon on the dates listed below. These deadlines are firm. For each 24-hour period your memo is late a penalty of one-third of a grade will be imposed (e.g. from B to B minus).

- Memo#1 Due: Monday, October 2
- Memo#2 Due: Monday, October 30
- Memo#3 Due: Monday, December 4
- Memo#4 Due: Monday, December 18

Reflections (18 points): Most weeks students will post a one-to-two paragraph (no more than 300 words) reflection on Blackboard. This should include insights into the reading assignments, class lecture, or other issues related to the course (e.g. news items, published research, etc.). These paragraphs should directly cite the readings for class. A rubric for the reflection is on the course website. Posts are due by 12 noon on Wednesdays. There are 9 reflections, but only 6 will count towards your final grade (reflections with the lowest grades will be dropped - alternatively, if you are pressed for time in a particular week you may decide not to submit a reflection).

Participation (18 points): Your participation grade will be based on attendance at, and contribution to, weekly discussions. Please come to discussion class prepared to discuss the readings and lecture material. Exceptions to the policies outlined above will be granted for documented medical reasons only.

Academic Dishonesty:
