

RESUME

Floyd Norris

Email: floyd.norris@outlook.com

Phone: 347 420-2890

EXPERIENCE

JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY

Instructor in Economics, 2016, 2018

Developed and taught undergraduate course on the economics of the 2008 financial crisis.

BARUCH COLLEGE

Adjunct Professor of Communications, 2016, 2017

Taught graduate course in financial crises to communication and business students.

THE NEW YORK TIMES, 1988-2014, Retired

Chief Financial Correspondent, 1999-2014.

Wrote two weekly columns: "High and Low Finance" covering markets, financial topics, accounting and scandals, and "Off the Charts" illustrating trends in economics and markets. Also wrote news articles and analyses. Based in Paris in 2004-2005 at the offices of The International Herald Tribune, now The International New York Times.

Editorial Board Member, 1998 and 1999.

Wrote editorials on financial and economic issues.

Wall Street Columnist and Reporter, 1988 to 1998.

Wrote "Market Place" column on stock market and covered general news on major business topics.

Assistant Business Editor, 1993 to 2014.

(My New York Times biography, plus links to columns and other articles, can be found at:

http://topics.nytimes.com/top/reference/timestopics/people/n/floyd_norris/index.html?8qa

Links to "Off the Charts" can be found at: <http://www.nytimes.com/column/off-the-charts>)

BARRON'S, 1982-1988

Stock market editor and "The Trader" columnist.

PREVIOUS

Reporter and editor for the Associated Press, United Press International and the Concord (N.H.) Monitor. Press secretary to Senator John A. Durkin, Democrat of New Hampshire.

PUBLICATIONS

The New York Times Century of Business, co-author. McGraw-Hill, 1999.

AWARDS

Lifetime Achievement Awards:

Society of American Business Editors and Writers, 2008

Gerald Loeb Award, U.C.L.A., 2003

New York Financial Writers' Association, 1998

EDUCATION

1983 M.B.A., Columbia University

1981-82 Walter Bagehot Fellow in Economics and Business Journalism, Columbia University

1965-68 University of California, Irvine